A very special thank you to Marc, Susan, Geoff, and Carolyn for making camp possible.
A huge thank you to Amy Illustration for the cover art, and all the campers who provided artwork for the yearbook.
Finally, thanks to the entire camp staff. Nothing in this book would have been possible without you.

MINISTRY OF MAGIC CLASSIFICATIONS

The Department for the Regulation and Control of Magical Campers gives classifications to all known beasts, beings, and spirits. These offer an at-a-glance guide to the perceived dangerousness of a creature. The five categories are as follows:

X

youngest / energetic / can be unruly / excitable baby teeth still / skilled counselors ONLY

XX

jocular juveniles / curious / enthusiastic / brave harmless / competent counselors may handle

XXX

inquisitive adolescents / rambunctious / confident sharp teeth (may bite) / competent counselors may handle

XXXX

promising personages / passionate / driven precocious / competent counselors may handle

XXXXX

oldest / impossible to train or domesticate may include CITs / competent counselors may handle

"THE PIPES OF MAN" (abridged by Alyssa Miller)

Harry Kahane, Herm 5

On Mars, there is nothing but atmosphere and dust. For millions of years, nature has worked and eroded the distant planet to the point of perfection.

The red planet has no place for man.

As we float downwards towards the planet's surface, I contemplate the importance of our mission. After years of nuclear conflict, the Earth has been chewed up and destroyed by man. It momentarily sits on the brink of complete and utter elimination. The United States of America, among several of the last countries remaining, has decided that life on Mars is the only alternative.

I stare out the capsule of our drop-pod. There is nothing but endless red. It reminds me of my detest for humanity. All I know is extreme love or extreme hate. I am simply an ideal trapped inside a man's body. My purpose in life is not to be a human or a man, but to become and realize an ideal. My mission is soon to be completed.

"John," someone calls out to me. I look back.

"Hey John, it's Elizabeth." She reaches out to me for a handshake. I look down at my stump.

"Elizabeth?" She ventures again.

"Yeah, Elizabeth," I nod with understanding. In an effort to mask my lack of humanity, I continue the conversation. "How are you?"

"I'm good, thanks," she says as she grabs her shoulder. She looks over at my stump. She ventures, "You told me, but I forgot."

"My second tour," I say.

Now she's uncomfortable. She looks at the floor.

"Anyway, I have to get back. Nice to see you again." She looks at me. I say nothing. She begins to walk away.

"Elizabeth?"

"Yes?"

A pause.

"You're very human."

From afar, she gives me a confused smile. I stand, unmoving. My head swivels. I resume looking out the window. She's one of the good ones. She's one of the people I fight for.

I feel my usual fit of anger begin to bubble in the backs of my eyes. My hatred is developing, slowly growing stronger and stronger until it takes over my thoughts in the day and my dreams in the night. Today my horrible rage is especially strong.

God, is man greedy. For thousands of years, men bite and rip at each other until there is no hope left. We are nothing but dirty, grimy rats in a sewer pipe, clawing and tearing at each other to climb through the muck and glimpse just a moment of sunshine.

A long time ago I knew what I had to do. Today, however was the day in which I was to destroy man. I am the destroyer of man, and I have waited since the day I lost my arm to avenge all those who died before me. I wish to destroy man not because I hate them, but because I love them. Is it love or is it hate? Is it both? The two blend together into one magnificent concoction of chaos.

My mission is set ahead of me. I walk through the white hallways of the ship. I will open all escape doors. My steps echo throughout the room. I walk into the emergency escape room. The command computers are ahead of me. Without thinking, I enter in the proper codes to open the ports.

Sirens begin to wail. Footsteps approach. I forgot to lock the room out of blind passion. I type in the codes to lock the doors. The doors get closer to touching each other. A figure barely slips by the large metal pieces before they touch. She looks up at me. Elizabeth.

"John!" I say nothing. "John, what are you doing?" A small smile spreads on my face.

"Elizabeth. I'm glad you're here. I'm ending it, Elizabeth. I'm ending it all. I'm ending in the name of consequence. Man has dug itself into a hole with its violence and conflict, and now they must face the consequences. They have no right to come to Mars. They have no right to penetrate this perfection of nature, this epitome of independence."

She's dumbfounded. She knows I have the power to end it with the push of a button.

"What gives you the right?" she says. "What about the innocent ones? They deserve escape, a second chance. Let us learn from our past actions, and teach the future generations, not abandon them!"

There is silence. She is proud of her words. I can see it in her eyes. The classic yet ever evident footprint of humanity is alive and well inside Elizabeth.

"What of my stump? What of the look in my son's eyes when we walk down the street and people stare at my deformities? What about all the days I couldn't play ball with my boy? All for what? I remember a man I fought. I killed him because he was an enemy to my country. But this man was not my enemy! When I walked over to him as he lay on the ground, and when I watched him gasp for one final breath before his death, I stuck a knife through his throat as if I hated him with all the hatred and filth that had ever existed."

She stares at me with her mouth slightly open.

"So how dare you question my right to end it all. The second I killed that man I was chosen. The second I lost my arm I was chosen. I am the messiah. I am the chosen one, not by God, not by my country, but by man himself in the wake of his actions against me."

Still Elizabeth looks at me.

"There's a certain irony in that, isn't there?" I smile.

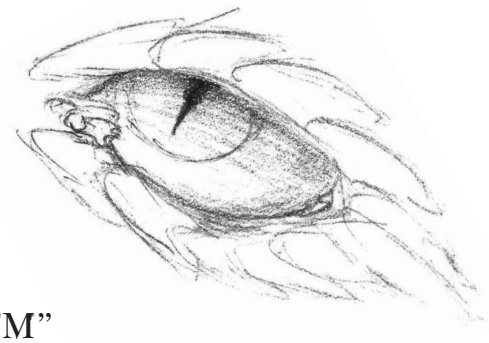
I close my eyes, picturing the rats gasping for only a single breathe of oxygen. I see the rats and their yellow, pointy teeth biting at each other. Their piercing yellow eyes.

Although now it appears to be pain, someday it will be seen as redemption.

I press Enter.

"Oh God, please n..."

WRITING



"BEYOND THE BLANK"
Emily Argoff, Sunrise 3

There lies no land beyond the blank
No hills, no mountains, no shimmering lakes
And people naught reside in there;
The villages are cold in that wasteland bare.

To traverse the blank you'll need a coat
Warm and downy for it has been sewn
With spiders silk laced with dew,
You'll need this coat to make it through.

There lies no land beyond the blank
So if you travel, know the stakes:
Few return beyond the plain
And if you do, you're not the same.

"A FAKE POEM"
by Haydn Payne

Knowing what's real
And what's fake
Parents erasing scary realities
For their children's sake

Yet they let us believe
In a man who decides when we die
And they shut out, ridicule
The children who wonder why

It's a controversial topic
Believe me
I know firsthand
The ones who speak out
Receive reprimand

But we don't really know
What's real and what's fake
Most say grass is green
Isn't it every color except
Isn't it just light refracting

Wouldn't that make grass being green
As crazy as ghosts exist
But one is more believable
So we put it on the list

I guess it's easier for most
To not accept things than to think
Just listen to others
Let them decide what's fake
Wash your thoughts down the sink

Like this poem for example
Many say a poem needs
A pattern and a beat
So am I with my fake poem
Admitting defeat?

"OATMEAL"

Lila Patterson, Lakeside 3

Birds chirped in the trees, and flowers turned their dreary faces to the early morning sun. A light dew sprinkled everything in sight with sunshine, and somewhere on the suburban street, an alarm went off rather loudly.

Francesca rolled over, groaning, Her hand slapped aimlessly against the table until it found the alarm clock and struck the off button.

An alert sounded on her phone.

Elanor's coming.

She hadn't seen her since last year. The meeting had been brief and straight to the point, like it always was.

She set down her phone and slid out from beneath her comforter, hugging her arms around herself. She grabbed a robe off a chair and made her way quietly to the first floor, her bare feet slapping against the wooden stairs.

Steaming coffee dripped slowly from the pot to plunk down at the bottom of her mug. A doorbell rang, and Francesca sat her mug down on the kitchen table, closing her laptop with a click.

The doorbell rang again.

"I'm coming, jeez," she muttered to herself, plastering a fake smile on her face. It was time to see her sister.

"So, how are the kids?" Francesca sat braless on her bed, sipping her coffee. Elanor seemed uncomfortable.

"Good," Elanor pursed her lips.

"And Mark?"

"We're getting a divorce. Got married too soon."

"Ah." Francesca cleared her throat.

Elanor's eyes shifted back and forth uncomfortably.

"How are you feeling?" She took a long sip of her water.

"Like oatmeal."

"Excuse me?" She spit the water back into her cup,

"I feel like oatmeal," she sighed. "I feel mushy and gross and unwanted. Like oatmeal."

"Did you see Dr. Atkinson about your oatmealiness?" Elanor raised her eyebrows.

"It's nothing." She looked down. "I shouldn't have said anything. Just gone on without our usual 'fine' and 'good'."

"Fine." Elanor stood up and started toward the door.

"See you next year."

"Just like clockwork."

"But Fran, promise to tell me if the leukemia comes back."

"I promise."

And all that was left was the sound of birds chirping.

WRITING

"SUNKEN PERFECTION"

Nathalia Holt, Lakeside 4

The sun shone down, a comforting glow.
The day was bright and warm.
In our perfect community with no room for gloomy storms.

The buildings, modern for our time
glinted with a golden sheen;
They towered over our robust city
like people tall and lean.

In our perfect community, with
No room for gloomy storms.

We had no control over our lives, yet never seemed to care. We were all raised to believe it was all perfectly fair.

According to the Elders, the people around us were always in pain;
Always hoping, trying to change
but doing so in vain.

Tonight our paradise was attacked by those wild, savage people.
They kidnapped the Elders, then burned down the Control Steeple.

As chaos spread, I watched; it had to be a dream.
'Wake up, wake up!" I told myself, surrounded by the screams of people of children
important and common alike who even after death would not forget this night.

I was knocked to the ground in the midst of the violence. I heard one more scream, then eternal silence.

I now watch from the sky
where our city used to lie;
I pray the legends of Atlantis
Never fade, never die.

For the legends are the only thing that afterwards survived.

"DRACO MALFOY TAKES HIS SON TO HOGWARTS"

Lily Easter, Sunrise 3

As I stand in Diagon Alley, memories come rushing back to me; getting my wand at Ollivander's, my first set of robes, and of course running into that awful Potter and his rag-tag group of friends. Year after year I had to watch them laughing in the streets, or enjoying an ice cold Butterbeer. Now I stare as Scorpius bounces from store to store like a child in a candy shop. It's such a tragedy that he has to deal with three Potters, but who knows, maybe he'll befriend one, considering how different we are. If my father was around, he would've said "Your boy is weak just like you were. Better knock some sense into him, Draco, like I did to you." He was always harsh on me. I mean, whenever he was around, which he hardly was. He spent most of his time at the Ministry or plotting with He-Who-Shall-Not-Be-Named. And Mum, well, she was very distant. I think it was depression due to Father's dalliance with the Dark Arts. It was almost like Potter and I had something in common, except he was showered with praise, whereas I was all alone and feared. I hope my boy isn't as much of an outcast as I was, but as I look around, this hope fades.

We are quietly bombarded. Children give nasty looks, adults whisper amongst themselves, and as I stroll past a couple of teenagers, one them whispers, "Isn't that the kid who's, like, the son of Voldemort?" Heat rises in my cheeks, and I go to say something when I feel Astoria's hand on my arm calming me down. But then I see Scorpius' hurt expression, and I can't control it anymore.

"How dare you! He's just a child! Can't you see you're hurting him!" The girl looks bewildered and more than a tiny bit fearful. I take Scorpius and we hurriedly finish his shopping and escape into the muggle world.

The drive home is awful, no one talks. I look over at Astoria and she is horrified, but I don't care. What was I supposed to do, let them say horrible things about my child? That night I do nothing but worry about what Scorpius' first day is going to be like. I'm sure the Potters and the Weasleys don't worry as much; they know their children will thrive there.

The next morning, I wake up to see an excited Scorpius standing at the door, packed and ready to go. I wolf down breakfast and then help Scorpius load his things in the car, and we head off towards King's Cross Station. Along the way, Scorpius chatters about his Hogwarts hopes and dreams, and then he says something that catches my interest.

"What house do you think I'll be in, Dad?" I stop and turn around and look at him. He waits anxiously for my answer. I know the truth, but I know it's not what he wants to hear.

"I don't know Scorpius, maybe Hufflepuff. You definitely have your mother's kindness." Both he and Astoria smile at the compliment. It breaks my heart that I lied to him, but I couldn't hurt him. We pull into the parking lot and hurriedly head onto Platform 9 ¾. That's when I see them, the two happy couples. They share many laughs and reminisce about old times with their children. A tiny thing in me stings with jealousy, and as I look around, I realize everyone is in these same groups, doing the same things, and I feel like I'm back at Hogwarts, alone and unwanted.

WRITING

"THE CAGE OF TIME"

El Cetinski, Sunrise 2

Time never waits.
Never pauses
To indulge your thoughts.
It cripples them,
Slowly damaging their spark of life.

Stories you hold dear
Disappear.
Phrases scatter while hours rush forward.
Never to smell the musty scent
Of worn books.
Or feel the inky touch
Of a typewriter.

The tuneful melody
That sang you to sleep,
Twists with time.
Lost to the many months
That doom them to be forever silent.
Stuck in empty air.

Ideas so fragile,
They break
Before reaching you.
They grasp at the cusp of your mind
Before time creeps in
To overtake you.
Potential of greatness,
Turns to dust
In the midst of useless knowledge.

Illusions of order
Blind your ignorant eyes
When you let time grasp you.
But let thoughts swarm your mind,
Allow them to drown you
To the point of madness.

And this madness,
However insane,
One day gives the chance
For ideas to walk free.
Released from the cage of time.

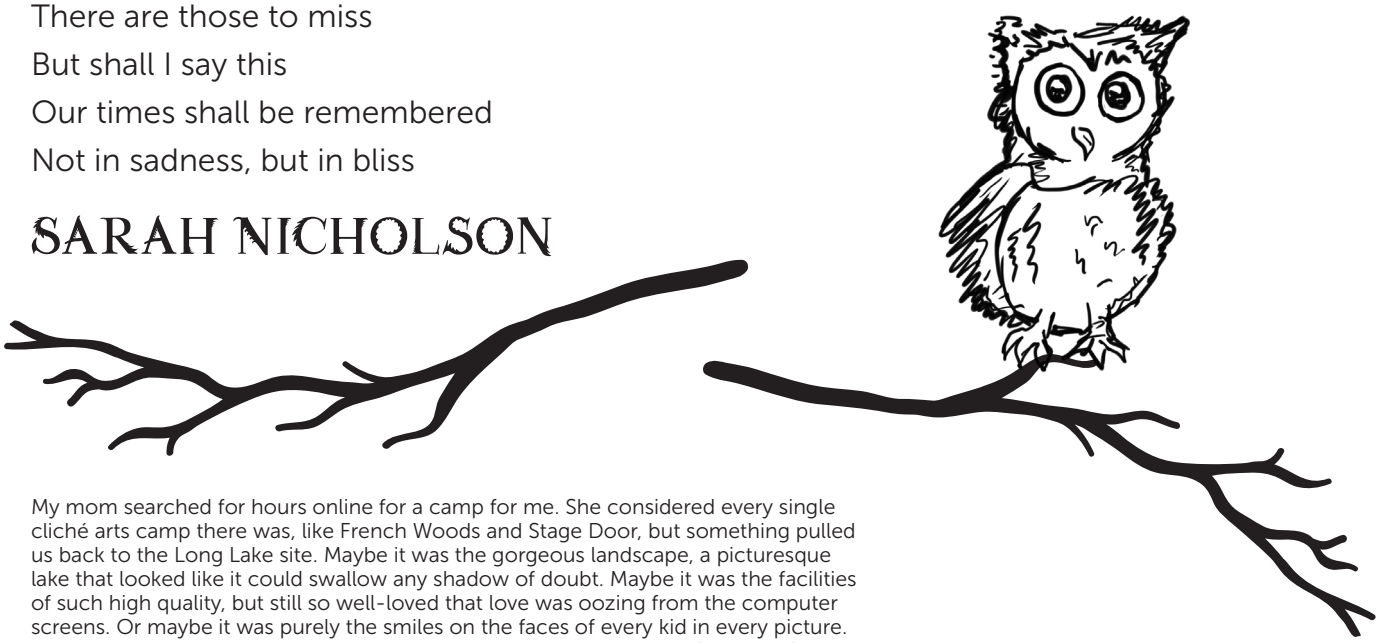
SESSION 1

People come and people go
From mountains that reign
Through sunshine and snow
There are those to miss
But shall I say this
Our times shall be remembered
Not in sadness, but in bliss

SARAH NICHOLSON



My mom searched for hours online for a camp for me. She considered every single cliché arts camp there was, like French Woods and Stage Door, but something pulled us back to the Long Lake site. Maybe it was the gorgeous landscape, a picturesque lake that looked like it could swallow any shadow of doubt. Maybe it was the facilities of such high quality, but still so well-loved that love was oozing from the computer screens. Or maybe it was purely the smiles on the faces of every kid in every picture. Whatever it was, it sure convinced me to make Long Lake my home for those first three weeks. So this is an ode to my two years at Long Lake, because when it comes to finding a home, it's better late than never:

Ode to the bus ride
sweaty palms, the buzz of anticipation louder than the engine.
Ode to the entrance gates
You make me feel like I am entering a safety net where the world is my oyster and I'm the pearl
Ode to that first night
the first time you make eye contact with a future best friend or love
Ode to auditions and callbacks and cast lists to the roles you get that end up not mattering because you always find a lesson hidden in every one Ode to my girls, my sisters you guys are my matches when I need a light you guys are the people who still find me beautiful at 3am you guys are the people that fill me up with something that sticks Ode to the Saturday night lover to this Saturday night and I hope many more
I have found a daydream here
Ode to the stage
the pieces of myself I have left in the PAC and the Riley will forever be tucked in the corners
And the pieces of the stage that have been left in me will always live in my heart
Ode to goodbye to the (side) hugs and illegal kisses remembered for years to come to the words of directors, counselors, and friends that will ring in my head like the wakeup bell whenever I am feeling like I can't find my way.
Ode to what's next to life with the everlasting imprint of this place on my heart and soul
Ode to see you soon
because it can never really be goodbye when a place has touched you this much.

See you soon, Long Lake.

OLIVIA BERNSTEIN

Dear Long Lake,

You've given me everything I could possibly wish for and more. You've built me a home across the Atlantic, you've given me friendships that'll last a lifetime, and you've taught me lessons that'll reach far beyond the gates at the top of the hill. I've learned to live and love and learn and accept with grace, gratitude, and an open heart.

You've taught me to throw my heart into the things I'm passionate about - otherwise they mean nothing. You've taught me that trying is the first (and most important) step of achieving your dreams.

I've learned that losing myself in the music of a performance on the Rylee stage can help me find myself and discover my strengths or weaknesses. I love what I do here, and luckily I get to do what I love.

I've learned that the bonds of sisterhood extend all the way from Arizona to Hungary. My girls in Main House will stay with me long after camp ends, long after we've gone our separate ways. The memories we've made will be a constant reminder of the laughs and good times we've shared. I love them all.

Some Advice for future Long Lake Campers:

- Fall in love with being here. Fall in love with the lake and the mountains and cozy bunks. Fall in love with the way a bonfire crackles in the Adirondack dusk.

- Enjoy every single second you get to spend here. It sounds cliché, but it's the best advice. Lose yourself in the time you spend here, because it'll be over before you know it. Enjoy the happiness, love, acceptance, and incredible people. You will never find a place like Long Lake.

- Talk to as many people as you can. Get to know them. No one will ever not want to talk to you. Starting a conversation is easy, it's finishing them that is hard.

I'm writing this with an immeasurable amount of love in my heart. I'll see you soon Long Lake.

RAHEL STEINBERG

KATE RUBERTI

I could go on and on explaining how Long Lake has changed my life, and how difficult it is to say goodbye; however, I'd rather explain why my Long Lake experience has been so memorable. Six years ago, I packed two large duffle bags, larger, and heavier than myself, hopped on a Vanderhoof bus, not knowing a single person or where I was going. Little did I realize, but stepping on the bus towards Long Lake, New York was one of the best choices I have ever made.

Over the years, Long Lake Camp for the Arts has truly changed my life. It has shaped me to be the individual that I am today. It was here, in the beautiful Adirondack mountains, where I learned to grow, to love, to accept, and to understand that I have the ability to do anything my heart desires.

Long Lake provided me with a solid foundation to venture out, and to find where I belong. But it gave me much more than that. It was the simple moments at Long Lake that made my experience so memorable. Whether it be sitting on the South Lawn in silence, or listening to a boat ramble, creating ripples and wakes in the water with squeals of happiness echoing behind. Whether it be running around during canteen with jingle bells, encouraging others to keep our camp clean, or lying with the CITs on the Main House porch, all snuggled up, awaiting shooting stars. It is all of these little things that made my Long Lake experience life-changing.

I have spent eighteen weeks here, and although time rapidly passes, while the days blur, and fade into one another, the memories I created remain vivid in both my heart and mind. Cesare Pavese, an Italian poet of the early twentieth century, once said, "We do not remember days, we remember moments." Many of my favorite moments were made here. Thank you, Long Lake, for growing up with me, teaching me how to be strong, independent, and confident, as well as teaching me the value for the little things in life that hold a greater meaning. I will forever cherish and remember every second I spent in this magical place.

So many people say that Long Lake is their true home, where they belong and look forward to all year. And it used to be that way for me. I lived in a miserable home, and Long Lake was my escape. It was my beautiful, wonderful, magic escape. I had a family, not just friends. I had a space that I felt safe enough to explore and a grow a passion of mine. For the first time this year, my CIT year, I was torn about coming back. Not because I don't love Long Lake, but for the first time I loved my life at home too. I attribute so much of that to this absolutely magnificent place. I would not be the person I am, I would not have gotten to a place where I can say I'm happy at home, without Long Lake. Without the people I met, both counselors and campers. Without the confidence that was brought out by this place. And without knowing that I had this escape to come to if things didn't change....Without these things, these wonderful things that I could've only gotten here at Long Lake, without them I don't know if I would've become the person I need to be to get myself to a happy home. So I thank Long Lake, not for being a home that's hard to leave, but for being the home that set me free. I am so utterly grateful for everything this place has done for me. You are a part of me, and saying goodbye breaks my heart. I will forever cherish the memories I have made. I have so much love for this place, and all the people. Thank you for everying, Long Lake.
Goodbye.

AVERY BEDERMAN

CAITH BAZOIAN

Because I have only been here for two years, I might not have as many memories as the kids that have been here for six years, but the memories I have from camp will last a lifetime. As cheesy as that is, it's the times I would sit in class and daydream about all the things I would do at camp. I can tell you that all the daydreaming has been helping me get through the very painful packing up all my things and moving from the East Coast to the West Coast.

Long Lake Camp for the Arts opens so many doors for each individual camper. Long Lake gives you opportunities that high school could never give you. The people you meet, the shows you put on, the cultures and interests you get exposed to, it all makes up the beautiful experience you get at this camp in the middle of nowhere in the Adirondacks.

I almost regret not coming here sooner, but as they say, everything happens for a reason. So thank you, Long Lake. Goodbye...

Last year was my first year and this year is my last year. Some people only get one year and some people are fortunate to get six years. Long Lake affects everyone no matter the time. As I read on the Rylee stage, "I can count the years, but I can't count the memories." Long Lake is a camp, a safe place, a home, and soon, a memory. A memory of friends, music, and most importantly, family. This camp is a huge part of my life. I don't go a day at home without thinking about this place.

If home is where the heart is, my heart is retired to Long Lake.

MADELYNN PLAUCHE

NATHAN KANTER

This place will forever be with me. Every time I come I never leave the same. I learn, grow, and become a better human being. I've been here for three years and five sessions, and though I've only spent fifteen weeks of my life here, they give me some of my most cherished memories. From sculptures, S.W.A.T., the Bat Caves, and whatever else there is, it is the people that truly make this place as great as it is. When I leave there will be a void left in me until I hopefully return as a counselor one day. Long Lake Camp for the Arts, I will miss you dearly.

When I first came to Long Lake three years ago, I was terrified and excited about spending part of the summer in a new place. I never visited Long Lake and although I heard great stories from a friend, I didn't know what to expect. But from the first minute I arrived, standing on the teardrop and later that night singing songs with the other girls in my bunk, I knew I had found a special place where people valued both the arts and one another as much as I did. Thank you so much, Long Lake, for three years of great friends, counselors, and memories that I will never forget.

HANNAH POMERANTZ

NICOLE MCELHOE

I have tried to write this numerous times, yet I still don't know what to say. Words cannot fully capture my experience here at Long Lake. For me, Long Lake was not my "home away from home," but rather a break from reality. Long Lake Camp gave me a chance to step back from the world to do the things I love with the people I love. Long Lake is a place where I can be whatever I want to be, free from judgment. The memories I have collected over my fours years at Long Lake will stay with me forever. Saying goodbye is one of the hardest things I have to do. I will love you forever and always, Long Lake <3.

Long Lake Camp for the Arts is a very special place. Long Lake is a place where you can do anything and be anyone. Literally. You can take part in so many unique opportunities. It's impossible to say goodbye to this camp, so I must say see you later, Long Lake. To quote my dear friend, Lizzie McGuire, "the greatest place in the world, with the greatest people in the world. Can you really ask for much else? Love you forever, Long Lake." At this camp I've made friendships and memories to last a lifetime. The people of Long Lake are amazing. Nowhere else can you wear Crocs daily. Nowhere else do you experience the unconditional love and acceptance that you do at this camp. Although I was only lucky enough to spend three summers here, I will always cherish my time here, and reflect on the lessons I've learned. There's so much I want to say about this camp that I don't know how to put into words. Long Lake: You're the everything to my bagel, the Chef Darryl to my pasta. There's no one else I'd rather side hug. I always carry a piece of you with me, Long Lake, and I hope that you keep a piece of me here with you. At Long Lake, I feel the happiest and saddest. Happy to be here, sad to leave. Although my time here has come to a close, I'm glad to have been a part of the beautiful microcosm of Long Lake. A good friend of mine named Mimi told me not to be sad that camp was over, because now I can move on to one day do big things. Forward!

LAUREN BOUCHER

STEPHANIE RINZLER

My Dear Long Lake,

This is it. Five years, 126 days, 3,024 hours, have all come to this. Although my time may seem large on paper, no number can express how incredible these moments have been. Long Lake has helped shape an insecure twelve year-old into the confident woman I am today. I am forever grateful for the wonderful friendships and amazing opportunities to learn about myself, art, and the scenic place surrounding me. I am unbelievably lucky to have Long Lake in my life.

It will be different. I can't imagine myself next year, not standing on the tear-drop, reuniting with my best friends. I can't imagine not waking up at four in the morning to sneakily check the cast lists, or spending days painting in the FAB. I can't imagine no longer being in any Long Lake ensembles, or playing in a band for Rock Night. But the reality is, I will no longer be able to do these things. For the past five years I've taken my time here for granted by living in the mindset of "I'll be back next year." But I can't reassure myself on that anymore. I will go home; I will deal with the stresses and pressures of the outside world; I will go back into a world that connects impersonally and hides behind screens. But I will take what Long Lake has given me and bring it with me. I will bring my confidence, my love, the creativity, curiosity, and passion that Long Lake has instilled into my character, and I will try to bring a bit of Long Lake back into the rest of the world.

This place is truly a gem in the rough. Please take care of it for me. Cherish it. Recognize how truly special it is. Be vulnerable, embrace it. Take advantage of every opportunity you are given here. Time flies. Before you know it, you'll be writing your CIT goodbye, too.

I may no longer be at Long Lake for the years to come, but Long Lake will always be with me. Cheesy? Yes. True? Most definitely.

Take care,
Stephanie Rinzler

SESSION 2

Long Lake makes everyone their best self. I will miss that. The combination of support and acceptance lets campers and staff thrive. It's a brutal world and at Long Lake you can forget that for awhile. Big thanks to Meg Wachs, Pete Drums, and Laura Taylor for being dope (having my back, caring, and all that sappy stuff.) I will also miss the stars and the trees. Long Lake has great trees. Big thanks to my friends, I love you guys, for real. I wish I could stay but as Damien Rice once said, "Time is contagious. Everybody's getting old."

CLAIRE COLLINS

There is no way that I can say goodbye to a place that has become so important to me, and sitting in front of a computer screen in the FAB trying to do so seems surreal. So this is not me saying goodbye. I'll say thank you. Long Lake, you've given me so much. You gave me mystery bruises and mosquito bites. Long nights of no sleep and whispered secrets. Bunk bonding sessions and porch showers in the pouring rain. You gave me cuddle puddles and a drippy sink that just won't turn off. Hummed show tunes and dirt under my fingernails. Feet stained by food dye and the dance studio floor. Those starry nights on the teardrop and four radical raids. You gave me Izzy (Jesus), Gemma, Hannah, Patrick, Kate, Ingrid, Indie, Pepper and all of the people who have been there for me. Sam, Audra, and all of the amazing directors I have been blessed to work with. Zak, who always knows how to make me smile, even when I feel like no one can. You gave me Dani, my best friend and inspiration, ever since our Hairspray rehearsal nap. Ten absolutely magical shows, and thirty perfect weeks. The greatest memories of my life, and the best of friendships.With everything you've given to me over the past five years, what can I possibly give to you in return?

Take the faded writing on the walls of all the bunks I have lived in. Take every song I sang, and every dance I've danced. Take every line and every note from my lips. Take Hairspray, Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, Once Upon a Mattress, Little Shop of Horrors, Hair, Urinetown, Les Miserables, Tommy, Rent and Bat Boy. Take my laughter and my tears. TAKE MY KIDNEYS, I DON'T NEED THEM.

But most of all Long Lake, take my deepest gratitude and all of this love in my heart. I grew up here. This isn't the end, it's just the beginning. Long Lake goes on without me, and all of the other wonderful CITs (Sixteen Dream Team!) All I can hope for now, is that Long Lake will continue to touch the lives of young performers, just as it has done for me.

I love you Long Lake, and I will never forget the moments.

LOGAN RASMUSSEN

In an effort to send me away for the summer of 2012, my parents came across Long Lake under the broad Google search "rock camp." That search ended up joining me with a camp I would return to for five years. The variety of experience and opportunity offered by this camp blows my mind - all of the professionals here are talented at what they do, and are all capable of being phenomenal mentors. They offer seemingly infinite opinions and approaches and are the reason why the session flies by and why I always struggle to cram as much new information into my head as possible before I have to leave. The fact that it is absolutely impossible to learn as much as I might want to from the counselors here is as awesome as it is frustrating. Every summer, I leave with newfound excitement and giddiness for my instruments and for music theory. I have tried new things here that I now do at home as well, and I'm so thankful that this place exposed me to such special opportunities that then influence my life outside of camp. The people I have become close with here are awesome. It often seems like Long Lake is its own secluded world where people feel free to reveal and celebrate their quirks with other people, and so almost everyone here is totally unique and interesting. It's amazing. Finally, I'd like to thank the Katz's as well as Geoff and Carolyn and all of the staff for creating this environment of encouragement and possibility. Seriously, this place seems like a fantasy land, and I'm going to miss it so much. My advice to younger campers: you get the most out of this place when you forget about what other people think and try to get the most out of the resources here as possible.

FRANCESCA MARTINI

CHARLOTTE SOMERVILLE

Over the past four years, Long Lake has become so much to me. My first year, I thought it would just be a fun place to come in the summer. And now, I realize that it's grown into so much more than that. The opportunities that are available on this little patch of land in the Adirondacks are something I've taken for granted for the past four years. As my time comes to an end, I've realized that I may never find somewhere with as much beauty, acceptance, and creativity as this camp. In addition to everything I've done here, from the waterfront to the FAB, the people that I've met throughout my time here are what have made this place unique and special to me. The counsellors here who I've become friends with over the years are some of the most interesting and supportive people I've met. And the campers, those who have grown with me over the years (looking at you MH5), as well as those I've only met this year, are people who I know will stay with me for long after our time here is up. Coming to this camp four years ago was one of the best decisions I've made for myself, and has altered my life and worldview in such a significant way. Thank you, Long Lake, for being such a big part of my life, and I know you'll stay with me forever.

It's been lit, fam.

What is Long Lake Camp to me?
It is a camp on a lake that is long.

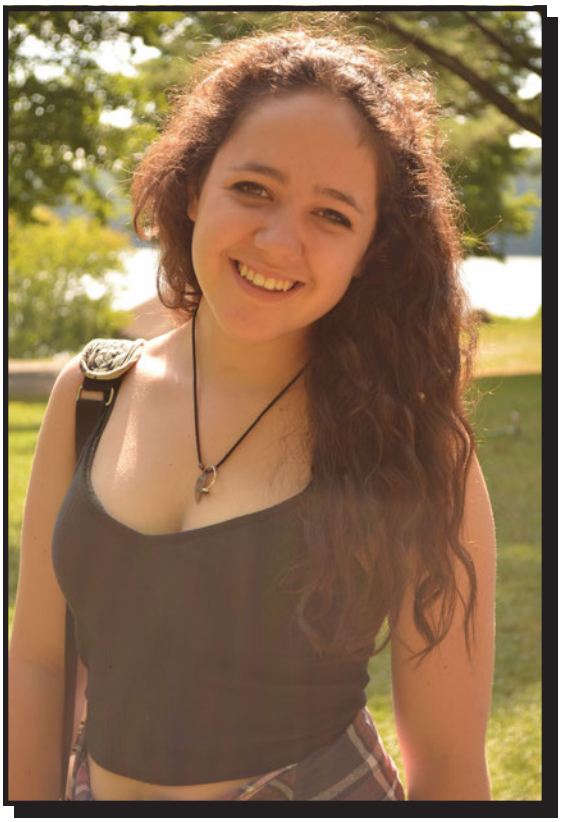
SAMMY PALTRINERI

JAKE LATTS

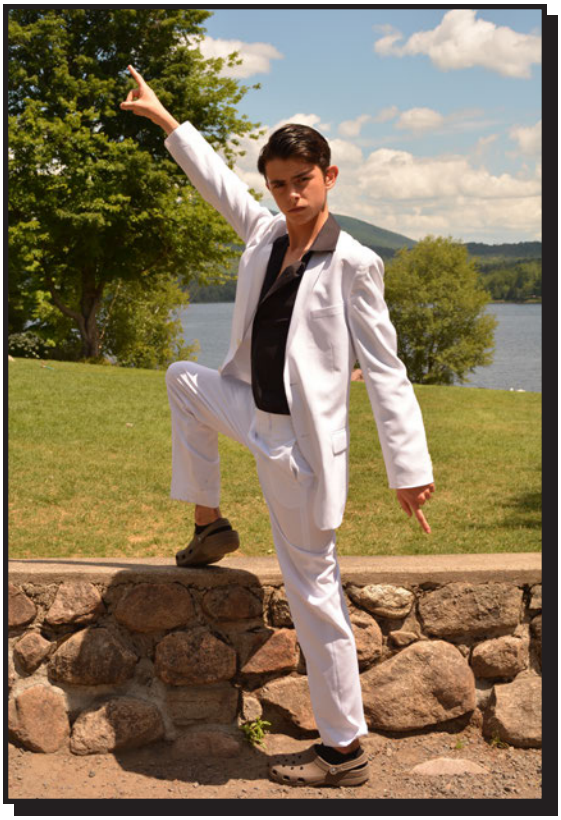
Long Lake is the most incredible place. Everything I was taught will stay with me forever, but the most amazing thing about this place is the relationships and the bonds that I've created with campers and counselors. The most magical thing about this place are the people. Everyone has helped, inspired, and loved me through my four years of being here. It's hard to say goodbye but within every person I've met here is a piece of Long Lake. It'll never be truly gone out of my life because I know I've made life long friends here. Thank you for the four most life-changing, self-discovering summers of my life.

COLLEEN MURPHY

DANI RICH



My first day at Long Lake Camp, my bunkmates and I all sat on the Upper Stone House porch. They said, "I'm here for dance", "I'm here for theatre", or "I'm here for art". But when it was my turn, all I could say was "I'm just here." As a confused and closed off ten year old, I didn't know what to be interested in or how to express myself. Long Lake has helped me to discover the beauty in myself and all that surrounds me. Here is where I learned to walk slowly so I can look at the stars, to belt "Santa Fe" at auditions with my chin up, to cuddle with my friends because I sleep better that way, and to take mental screenshots to save all the really special moments. Like looking into my best friend's eyes, fireworks booming behind her, like sleeping on the teardrop after the raid, freezing but loving the company, like bunk bonding sessions every night, like showering in the rain. Thank you for it all. Thank you for the greatest six years. I am so grateful that I found you when I did. I leave here with a support system of friends, scattered across the world but always right by my side when I need them. So let me go, I am ready. And thank you for giving me so much of what I am today. Goodbye Long Lake, I'll miss the leaky sink.



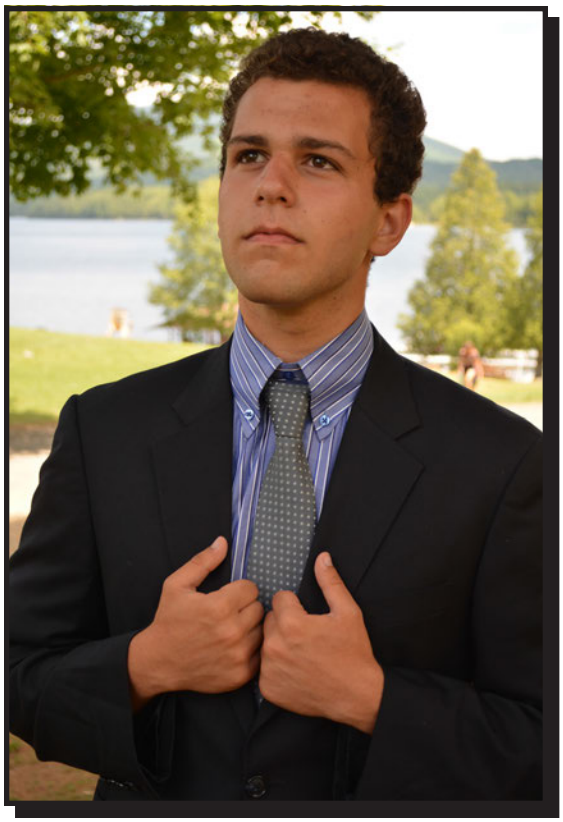
If you are reading this, then I have completed my CIT year at Long Lake without getting kicked out. Ya me!!!!!! What is even more astonishing is the fact that I have spent three summers and four sessions here without getting kicked out. Its was my best friend Noah Bailey who introduced me to this place, so I said yolo and thought I would give it a try. Little did I know that decision would change my life. What started as one summer turned into three summers, which I can say, thanks to LLC, were some of the happiest times of my life. I have made so many memories and everlasting friends here for whom I am eternally grateful. Long Lake was the one place where I could truly express myself, shaping the me I am today. Due to its theater program, I'm leaving this camp a better actor, and thanks to the music department a better musician. But it's not the camp's curriculum that makes this place magical; there are hundreds of arts camps, some with even better departments than LLC, however Long Lake has something special, something that no other camps have and that is the people. So in conclusion, I would like to say thank you. Thank you from the bottom of my heart, thank you to anyone who has ever talked to me, done a musical with me, been in a rock band with me. Thank you to Carolyn, Geoff, Marc, and Susan, who this camp would not be possible without. And thank you to the campers and counselors, for you allowed me to discover who I really am.

DYLAN DOUGLAS

STEFANO BOETTO

Two years ago, I came to this camp for the first time, scared and lonely. I wasn't very keen on going to some strange sleep away camp in the middle of nowhere. When I got here, I met some campers and counselors that would be my friends to this day. For the first couple of days, I wasn't really into this place. I missed my bed, my parents, food that wasn't pasta. But slowly, I learned to love this place and see it as the magical paradise that it is. Long Lake got me into acting - my directors have taught me so much that I'm sure I will use in the future. Same can be said about all the counselors here. I've made lifelong friends here at Long Lake, I've done things I never thought I would do, like be in a rock band and sing in front of three to four-hundred people when I've never sung anywhere that wasn't a car or a shower. I've made friendships that I know will last me a lifetime. I've made memories that i could never forget. When I first got here, I was in one of the lowest points of my life. My first summer here changed all that. I'm not the person I used to be, and I say that in the best way possible. Long Lake is my home. Everyone here is my family. I LOVE it here. I know everyone says it, but this is my home. I've grown as a person. I've fallen in and out of love for the first time, and made friends who will always be there for me. Saying goodbye to this place will be one of the hardest thing I'll ever have to do. But it's never goodbye. It's a, "I'll see you soon, Long Lake." You will forever be a part of me.

CIT '16, Dream Team <3



GEMMA SIEGLER

The past five summers I've spent here have been magical. As corny as that sounds, it's true, and anyone who has spent time here can attest to that. Every musical, play, dance show, art show, and music ensemble performance is infused with passion and love, and you can feel it. Each person I've encountered here has helped me grow and change from the tiny, scared eleven year-old who came here not knowing a single person, to the person I am today. This camp has given me confidence, and I am forever grateful for that. I want to thank all of Lower Stone House 2012, Lakeside 2 2013, Lakeside 1 and 2 2014, Sunrise 2 2015, and Main House (especially Main House 3 <3) 2016, for putting up with me for weeks on end, and being there fo me through every emotion possible. I want to thank every director, music director, and choreographer, for believing in me. And lastly, I want to thank all of you who are reading this. I encourage you to cherish every moment you have left in this wonderful place. Cherish every solo, every meeting, every rehearsal, every evening activity (even the ones you hate), every Nutella sandwhich, every time you burn yourself on hot chocolate, every illegal full frontal or koala hug, cherish it all. Try something you've never done before, make new friends (it's easier than it seems), sit on the Main House roof and look at the stars. Time goes by in the blink of an eye, make sure you've left your mark here, and that you've let Long Lake make its mark on you.

Don't you forget about me,
XOXO,
Gemma

P.S. I miss you Chantelle (sausage)

INDIE BEARE

On the first night of camp, I said that I come back because when I'm not here, I'm homesick. That feels truer than ever as I sit down to write my goodbye. Long Lake has allowed me to learn more about myself and what I love to do in the summers I've been here than maybe anywhere else on the planet. I've met some of my favourite people here. I've been part of some truly awful productions, and some that were so good that I was on the edge of my seat every rehearsal. To all of my friends who have more time: you don't know how lucky you are to have it. Do dumb stuff. Have fun. Look like an idiot. To all of my fellow CITs (sixteen dream team): I have been so lucky to spend the past three summers with you all. Ingrid: I love you to the moon and back. Logan: I hate how incredible you are at everything you do. Colleen: I can't imagine a summer without you. Jessica Packes: I don't think you play enough instruments. You should work on that. I don't have the space or the time to give all the love I have to all the people who deserve it, so I'll finish with this: Rebecca Roth, I hate you. Drop dead. Indie xx

When I first walked into Lakeside 4 two years ago, I knew I had happened upon something special with this camp. I never knew how special until this year. In six weeks, weeks that felt like simultaneously a lifetime and a blink of an eye; I found best friends. I found artists who have taught me things about myself that I never could have imagined. Four weeks ago when I walked on camp for my CIT year, I never thought I would sing. I felt confident in what I brought but I would never ever imagine myself as a singer. Yet, here I am, belting my face off in The Addams Family. There must be something in the air here that turns timid little children into confident performers over the course of their time here. This place is really just magic. And I'm so grateful. Grateful for the family I've gained from all around the world in Main House and Herm 6. Grateful for Kendal and Audra, helping me find my voice. Grateful to the Video Squad for being some of the coolest people I've ever met. Thank you to Tim, Ryan, and Deric for teaching me more about being on stage in 6 weeks over two summers than I've learned in my life outside of camp. Thank you to the counselors who I can now call sisters. These have been three remarkable summers. These have been friends to last a lifetime. These have been shows to remember for the rest of my life.

Thank you.

INGRID TROST

ISABELLE GRAHAM

This message is not and is in no way a goodbye. I am not planning on crying while I write this. This message is simply a huge thank you. For the past 5 years, Long Lake Camp has made me so happy and joyful and all I want to do is thank everyone in the best way possible for making me this happy. This camp has allowed me to be expressive with no judgement, which is something that you don't find in many other places. There is a special community and trust at this camp, and it has allowed me to meet and become friends with some of the most genuine and talented artists. The amount of love, passion, and respect for the arts at this camp is overwhelming, and I can say that because I have been at Long Lake Camp for the Arts, I have come to love performing and visual arts even more than I did 5 years ago. I am thankful for the opportunities to express my love for performing, I am thankful to all of the staff that work so strenuously to keep this camp in tact, I am thankful to all of my teachers and directors who have taught me so much, and I am sincerely thankful to all of my friends and fellow CITs that have been fantastic and amazing supporters. (CITs 16 Dream Team!!) This camp is considered to be one of my homes and I have made so many memories that I will carry throughout my life.

I am very fortunate to say that I have spent the past 5 summers at Long Lake Camp for the Arts. I know that I would never feel this way without each and everyone of you. Thank you.

Trying to keep this short, I want to thank Lee, Tyler, the two best counselors, Sam Ashley and Luke Winter, and every other counselor, unit leader, and camper who I've met through my six years, eight sessions at the best camp in the world. Also, I want to thank the best chef in the world, Chef Darryl, for his grilled cheese and the rest of his amazing meals. My first year at Long Lake Adventure Camp, I was 10 years old. I came with my two best friends, Spencer and Luke. They will always be my best and closest friends thanks to Long Lake Camp. Goodbye, Long Lake.

JACOB MARKMAN

JORDAN BARRETT

It's kind of crazy that I have to say goodbye to you so early. My third and last year here has come too early, and I will miss everything about this place. This camp has given me so many experiences that I would've never had otherwise, and has introduced me to parts of myself I've never seen before. The relationships I've formed here will stay with me forever, and I will never forget them. My first year here was confusing and odd, but at the same time, it was the most important one. I started out in Herm 2, not knowing anybody except Michael Bayliss, a Herm 6 camper who lived in my city, and thought I was annoying. I made friends with a couple kids in my bunk, but slowly, as my years progressed, more people started to talk to me and I learned not to be afraid of being myself. My closest and most important friends here, Sam Everett and Simon Bradlow, have stuck with me through thick and thin, and I love and thank them for everything. There are several more people I want to thank, but I'll save it for my last day here. Almost everything I've done at this camp, everybody I've made friends with, all the shows I've been in, all my ups and downs, have led up to this moment. My CIT year, making me one of the "big kids" of this camp, has brought me so many emotions and feelings that I've never seen in myself before. I don't like going on and on with these corny goodbyes, so I'll keep it short and sweet. Goodbye, Long Lake. Every moment I've spent here has been bittersweet, and I regret none of it.

Love you so so very much,
Jordan

When I first got off the bus 1st session in 2011 with my best friend Spencer Chandlee and one of my best friends now, Jake Markman (I met him that morning at the bus stop), I had no idea that I was going to embark on the best 6 summers of my life. I have learned more life lessons and met more people that have greatly influenced me at Long Lake than anywhere else. I have also had some of my most memorable and funniest memories at camp and have made lifelong friends here with campers and counselors that I will continue to contact after camp. I would like to thank Tyler, my first unit leader and great friend who has helped me out through my 6 years. Lee and Cindy, for both being extremely hard-working to make my time here as enjoyable as possible and for fixing my grandparent's 1953 Chevy (means a lot to my whole family)! My two best friends, Spencer and Jake, for always being there to listen to me and for being completely stupid with me and all of our inside jokes, (undeveloped muscle, heat rises, si pappi, mmm boys!, etc.) By the way Jake, you're still the stupid one. (Imaginary high five with Spencer.) I would also like to thank my family for providing me with this incredible experience and my sisters for finally understanding why I have been wanting you to come for 5 years! I have enjoyed watching Adventure Camp grow over the past 6 years from four cabins on a huge chunk of land, to a huge complex full of different activities and double in size of cabins. For me, this isn't goodbye, this is more of a "see you later."

I'd like to mention a few things that have made this camp stick with me for the past six years. Thank you chef for grilled cheese. Thank you rain and wind for making morning meeting especially long. Thank you arts campers for tolerating Adventure Camp's loud and obnoxious music throughout the day. Thank you to my two favorite counselors, Sam Ashley and Luke Winter. Thank you "Riptide" by Vance Joy for taking 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and every other place at last year's talent show. Thank you soccer for being the one consistent activity in the camp. Finally, I'd like to thank Jake Markman and Luke Perez for making this the best part of my summer every year as my best friends. These aren't all the things I look forward to, but they are what made my camp experience mine. Thank you, Long Lake Camp.

"Never say goodbye, because goodbye means leaving, and leaving means forgetting, and forgetting means never coming back."-Walt Disney. Every tree, every inch, every memory made, has a special place in my heart. I'm gonna miss waking up to the sound, of having my best friends in the world around. 4 Summers, 5 sessions, 1 home. Never be afraid to shine and take chances at the safest and most accepting place on Earth. Long Lake has helped me find light in the darkest of times, and brought joy into my life when I had none. Forever love to my bunk counselors in LSH, LS4, SR3, and MH, and my unit leaders, Kimmie and Emily, (ft. Cat, Jethro, Emma, Justin, Aoife, Jarryd, Sarah, Devon, Kendal, Josh, and Kayla), who took care of me, believed in me, were always there when I needed them, and made me laugh when I didn't even want to smile. Forever thanks to all of the campers, counselors, directors, music directors, staff, etc. who have helped me grow, learn, and changed me for the better. Shoutouts to my first best friend/ brother at Long Lake, Guy Liskey, and my sister/wife for life, Ella Deutchman, who couldn't return for my CIT year. Thank you, love you and miss you to my Long Lake fam. Here I have truly created the dream team. XoXo - Cleo Borthwick

As I sit here in the FAB, I am tasked with the unthinkable: finding the words to describe my sorrow at leaving my favorite place in the world. First of all, though, I would like to suggest that the camp invest in the following things: Longer shorts for Aslan, a belt for Nate Puppets, a new sweater for Jethro, and a huge vat of Nutella big enough to drown the campers who don't put their phones on airplane mode.

Despite my sojourn of two years being considerably shorter than that of many of my peers, I feel that this place is my true home. This camp is better than therapy in many respects, for while I am here I am at peace and when I leave, and I feel refreshed and semi-ready to put up with the sometimes insufferable monotony of normal life. I have made so many friends here, and while many of them will fade into the fog of distant memory at the back of my mind, some of them will be with me forever. I met my good friend and one true confidant here and I miss him dearly. But enough wallowing in self pity. My CIT goodbye is not meant to be a tearful eulogy to some of the best times of my life, but rather a grateful testimony to the wonders this place has done for me. With that in mind, I would like to recognize Nick Lewis and Sam Johnson for always being there for me. I miss you both more than I could say and I have thought about you every day that I was here. I'd also like to recognize Madelynn P., Sarah N., and Jake S. for being my friends ever since I first arrived here last year. I'd also like to thank all of my bunk counselors, but especially Charlotte because she's been putting up with my slovenliness for two years and I will miss annoying her.

Finally, the following things must never be forgotten: toothpaste and the dog, Papa Smurf, The truth about Shaggy LD, my threats involving the floor of MH7, pants or lack thereof, Coconut Chocula, and of course, my butt.

During the past four years I have been inspired, influenced and just plain had a fantastic time. There are so many people that contributed to my experience at this amazing camp, all of whom have made it that much better. Coming to Long Lake, it was a new environment and roaring atmosphere that never seemed to disappoint. My first year I was not very fond of musicals so I went to what I was familiar with a straight play. The first show I was cast in at Long Lake was the show Shakespeare in Hollywood coincidentally the same show they are doing the last year I am attending. In this show I played Daryl, a very shy, introverted secretary who at the end of the performance was being fought over by the two female leads. This was because of a magic love flower that infected both the female characters, infatuating them with Daryl at his gaze. My director, David Glover, who would be my director for the next four shows except one, would be a very influential and extremely important reason of my overjoyed return to camp. Over the past years I have made friend after friend always convincing the best to "please you have to come back next year." Along with meeting new friends I had to show my old ones this new and entrancing place. My best friend Dylan Douglas was able to come with me my second year of camp bringing as much enthusiasm and excitement as I did coming back. With my new and old friends I was able to create moments and memories that will last a lifetime. My last year at camp and first time going six weeks, I have to say, will be the most enjoyable year. I will never forget my bunk Session 1, 2016 - most of the time spent I was the craziest and most ludicrous kids on camp. Along with the campers I will never forget the counselors always there to join in the jokes and to tell us when we went a bit too far with some. My final show at camp, The Addams Family, once again directed by David Glover, will probably be one of my favorite shows because I am finally able to be in a cast with my two best friends my sister Rebecca and Dylan. To all the other friends and mentors I made throughout this great camp experience, I am sorry for not mentioning you but in the end you will always be remembered by yours truly. Goodbye Long Lake.

Sincerely, Noah H. Bailey

It's weird thinking that I would have to do this after hearing the countless announcements from previous years about writing CIT goodbyes. But here I am. It's been a long time since I first came here and I can barely remember my first year, but something brought me back here. Maybe it was the friends, or the environment, or the food...just kidding. But I came back because I love it here. Things are different here. It's hard to really describe the feeling I get here, but it's nothing that you could feel anywhere else. It's special to me and to so many others. I'll never forget any of the people I've met here and they will stick with me forever. I'll still keep in touch from time to time, and all the memories will run through my head in the years to come. Here is a place in the middle of nowhere where people come together. A place where I have loved, lost, made mistakes, and learned how to be me. I know whoever may be reading this will think it's sappy and ridiculous but to me it's the only way I know how to really say how all of these people make me feel. All of those late night talks in the bunk. All of the casts of the various shows I participated in. It's hard for me to express it in this small paragraph but there's nothing else I can do. And I will leave Long Lake hoping that I have left a mark on it. Perhaps somewhere in the Herm 6 bathroom you can see my name. Or on the walls of Cain's Play House. I will miss all of you. Cya later <3 dabs into the sunset

Dear LLC-goers,

I am so happy to have searched for music/singing/arts camps on Google for hours, but chose to go to the first camp advertised on Google (aka Long Lake)! HAHAHA! (Bravo LLC marketing people!) Although 2016 is only my second year here I love this camp so much and am so grateful to have had such a nice and hilarious experience here. I can't be happier to have made the decision to come to this camp and meet all my amazing friends and staff here. These people continue to inspire me to delve myself into the arts and new experiences as I accept all my talents and flaws with grace. Long Lake allows me to do what I love with the people I love! I'm sad to leave, but I am so happy to have been here and digested the bowel-threatening food. Morning shoutouts, peanut pals, Main House chants, and raiding Herm 6 would mean absolutely nothing if not for Main House. If you're reading this and you're still going to Long Lake (even Adventure Camp) take advantage of every opportunity and memory that you can make. We don't just pay $6,000 for pasta and french toast. Just as Beyoncé says, we're "FLAWLESS" baby!

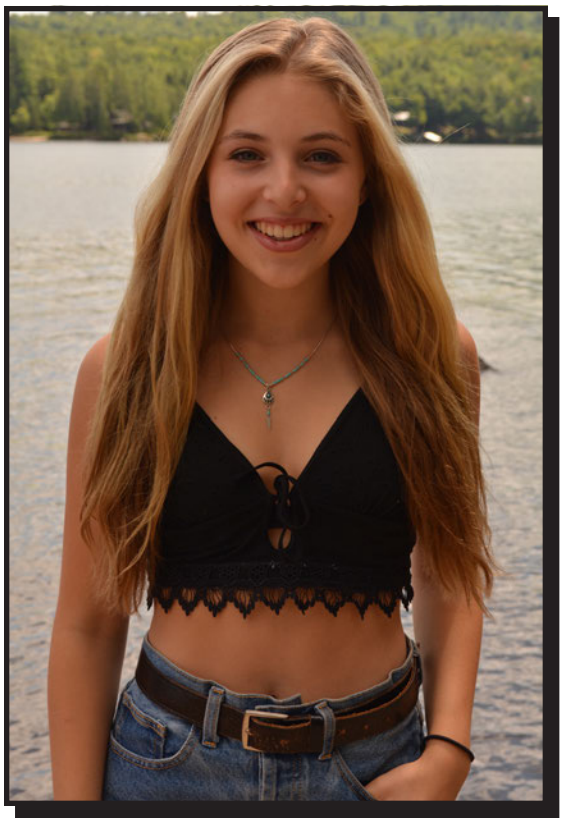
Thank you Long Lake for making the past three summers unforgettable.Thank for all of the wonderful opportunities. Because of this camp, I was able to improve my acting and singing, try news things, and meet some pretty great people. I've made some of the best friendships I've ever had here, and I wanted to thank those people for making a difference in my life. This is truly is a home away from home. Goodbye Long Lake, and thanks again!

SOFIA NUOVO

Long Lake Camp for the Arts is a very special place to me and there is no place in the world that can compare to it. It is the only place where I am constantly surrounded by people that share my love for art and theater. There is no other place where you can make amazing friends that last a lifetime and have Nutella sandwiches every day for six weeks. I will never forget all the amazing memories that I have made in my four years here. For example, sleeping on the teardrop with my best friends after raiding Herm 6 and looking at the stars, or the second session water park trip...thank you Long Lake for those amazing, unforgettable four years.

SARAH KATZ



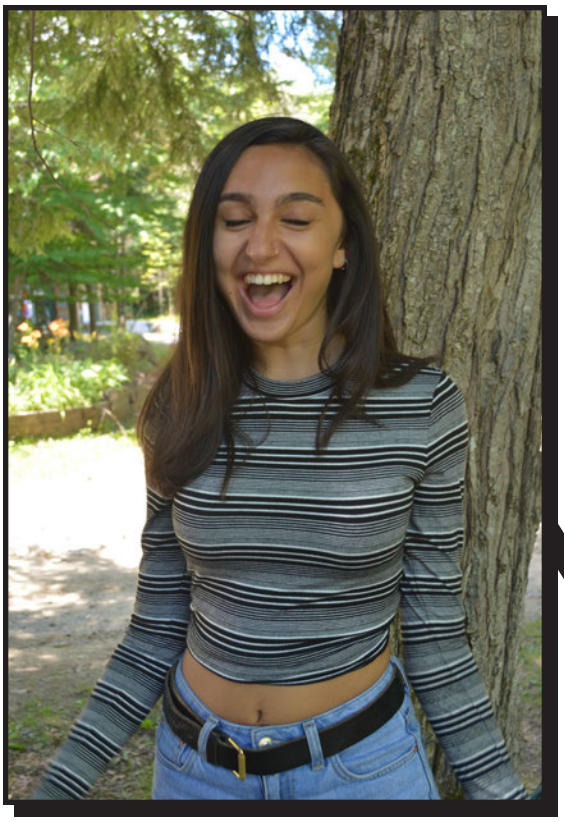
It's always hard to say goodbye. It's even harder to imagine a summer without a place that has been a part of your life for so long. I think that's why it's so difficult, because saying goodbye means you have accepted that it's over. And that's just it, I don't want to admit it's over. I guess I'm rambling in my goodbye for various reasons. First off, I come to camp for acting, not for writing, and putting pen to paper is much harder than it seems. Second, it's the day of the deadline, but more importantly third, writing this marks the end of an era, the end of my childhood. It means leaving a place that I look forward to the other 344 days of the year. I'd like to thank the camp for being a home to me for five summers. Thank you for introducing me to genuinely amazing people that have helped me grow into, hopefully, a better person. Thank you for helping me explore my creative side and discover passions and talents I never knew. Sure, I'll miss the environment of camp, but what I'll really miss is the people. Leaving them is the hardest part, but I guess that's when you know they made an impact on you. So thank you for the laughs, the memories, and the unforgettable experiences. I didn't want to make this sappy, but hey, that's what goodbyes do to you! See you when I see you, Long Lake.

CELINE DUTOIT

Long Lake,

First I would like to thank Marc, Susan, Carolyn and Geoff and all the counselors for making this camp so amazing. Long Lake Camp has truly changed me for the better. My first year here was in 2013, and I have been coming here for the past four years. Everyone here is so nice and welcoming. For me, this camp is a home away from home. Thank you for everything you have done for me.

Love,
Celine Dutoit



PAIGE CANTALUPO

Thank you for the bug bites and the grass stains and all of the lovely people I've met that I'll probably lose contact with within four months. It's been real, Long Lake! (I am very upset and ergo deflecting my feelings with sarcasm.)

MEAGAN COTE

My three years at Long Lake have helped me create amazing friendships and lifelong memories. I hope the camp continues to create amazing memories for more campers in the future.

This place was nice, but goodbye. <3

Dear Future Long Lake Campers,

Over the past five years and six sessions of being at Long Lake, I have found a home with people that love the same things that I do and who come together to share amazing memories and experiences. There is no place at Long Lake where I don't feel at home. Long Lake is a very special place that a camper should treasure. To everyone who has been there for me, to my new friends that I met this year during session two, thank you. Thank you so much for what you have done and for the memories that you have helped me make. There is not enough time and there are not enough words for me to explain the true love that I have for long lake. I also want to thank Audra for being there for me every step of my journey. Before I met Audra, I wasn't able to get up on a stage and perform in front of people. I couldn't even sing in front of my closest friends. But as I started to work with Audra, my confidence was boosted and she helped me realize that I could do great things and sing on stage like the other talented kids at Long Lake. Because of her, I was able to audition for a show this year, and I was fortunate enough to be in The Addams Family. I don't really know how to end this CIT goodbye, but I just know that the five summers that I spent at Long Lake were some of the best days of my life.

Love,
Manzie

P.S. The sweater will live forever.

It's crazy to think that the place you've called your second home for the past 7 years is now a place you can no longer go to. I remember visiting LLC long before I was able to become an official camper. My mom worked here as a nurse and took my brother, Justin, and me along with her. I remember that even though I wasn't a camper, I participated in fun activities with Marc, his sons, and Lillian, such as fishing, going to the waterpark, and making s'mores. I knew even back then that this place was truly such a nice, caring, fun, and safe environment that I could call my second home. Going from a 9 year-old, nervous and scared to start camp, to now being a 15 year-old, nervous and scared to leave camp, I can confidently say that I have been shaped as a person because of this wonderful place. Long Lake taught me to push myself outside my comfort zone. It is through Long Lake that I have met some of my closest friends, friends who I hang out with even after camp is over. Long Lake has given me the chance to explore new experiences I would have otherwise never experienced. Such experiences include:

- 7 outstanding musicals
- 7 amazing dance shows
- 4 great circus shows
- Doing the voiceover for the LLC video advertisement
- Singing in a recording studio
- Being in two music videos
- Performing with a band
- Being in a fashion show
- Being in an a capella singing group
- All the endless performance opportunities
- And every other awesome experience in between HUGE thanks to Marc, Susan, Carolyn, and Geoff for making it possible for me to even step foot in this beautiful place. I will forever love you Long Lake. Thank you so much for 7 unforgettable summers :))

This has been my fifth and final year here at Long Lake Camp. During those five years, I have seen friends come and go, and now it is my turn to leave. I will never forget the experiences I've made here, and hope to come back here again, but this time as a counselor. See you soon, Long Lake.

Dear future Long Lake campers,

I don't know what the reason was that made you come here originally, if it was for painting, singing, acting, or whatever, but you will eventually realize that the best gift that Long Lake has to offer is a family, and the promise to be at home, to be yourself.

I am not an artsy guy myself, and LLC did not make my artistic personality come out, but I met incredible people that I will never forget and I deeply thank Long Lake for it.

Dear future camper that is still reading, this place is heaven on earth; don't waste it.

Tom BORLOO (that one french dude)

I've never been good at writing or talking, so this is going to be short. I love this camp because of the people I have met here. The counselors here are some of the coolest people I've ever met, such as Audra Music Director, Charlotte Silver/Digital/my sister, Meg Jewelry, Josh Magic/my sarcastic best friend, Shane ATV/General Sports/really cool guy, Emily Circus/unit leader/The Incredible Hulk, and all the other amazing new counselors that I have met here. Thank you for five years, Long Lake, it's been real.

CHARLOTTE CHAPMAN

Mr. Aredlano,

Goodbye everyone. I have had the best three weeks at this camp, two years in a row. AC1, I will always remember you guys, from Javier's dances and songs, to Elias' chants and French phrases. AC1D, you guys made Long Lake Camp a home away from home.

Saying goodbye is a hard thing to do, especially when you know that your time has passed and it's time to let others take your place. Make the most of your time here, it goes by in the blink of an eye. Take a look around and memorize everything. The walkways, the trees, the lake; memorize it so that when you go, you can always return to that moment in time when you and everyone around you were so incredibly happy. Hold onto that so when it's time to say a final goodbye, take your final bow, finish your last masterpiece, you'll have it to look back on. Take hold of all the good that life has to offer and let the dirty, nasty, bad feelings scatter in the winds. Time moves too quickly to hold onto anger, and especially anger that holds you back from doing what you love. Please love this camp as we have and pass it onto others. Share the beauty and love with your friends and family, and remember when it's over that you will always have the relationships made here. Friendships that will never fade.

Love Always,
Alexandra

Long Lake has been my second home for the past five years, and I couldn't be more grateful to have had the opportunity to be a part of numerous fantastic productions, as well as having made such amazing friends. At Long Lake I made friendships with people that could never be severed by school or stress. These friendships will last a lifetime, and for that I am eternally grateful. My friends here at Long Lake embrace my differences and quirkiness, and that's why I love them all so much. They have always been there if I've needed a shoulder to cry on, or for a laugh. My friends at Long Lake hold a special place in my heart, unlike any of my friends from home. Leaving this magical place will be upsetting for me, but I know that when it's my turn to leave, it's someone else's turn to come, and I just hope they have as great an experience at Long Lake as I did. Love you Long Lake Camp!

Honestly, I'm not good with words, so thank you and goodbye.

I remember three years ago when I was reading the yearbook and I was thinking about what to write. I remember that I had my entire CIT Goodbye ready. Now that it's my turn to actually write it, I have no clue what to say. It's so overwhelming, the fact that this is my last year. Long Lake is my favorite place. Even though I have a house, it feels more at home here. I don't want to leave, this place makes me happy, the friends I meet here are so great. I don't think I will miss a place more than I will miss Long Lake. Long Lake is like my escape from reality. Even though I go through my ups and downs, I will never change this place for the entire world. I know that I'm just another kid leaving, but I will always remember this place as my home. Thank you Long Lake Adventure Camp.
I know that I'm not the best person to deal with, but somehow it works out and I always want to come back.

When I first came to Long Lake last year, I was somewhat unsure if I'd fit in with the kids that have come back from previous years, or if I'd enjoy myself here, but boy was I wrong. I soon realized that the campers and counselors were the nicest people I've got to meet, and that it was the most welcoming environment I've ever been in. Everyone was so easy to get along with and I hope to be able to stay in touch with all of the people I've met here. I've made better friends here than at home due to constantly being around them. Living with your friends versus seeing them on occasion creates much stronger bonds, unfortunately along with the heart-wrenching feeling that comes on the last day when you have to say goodbye to all of the great friends you made that session. I was truly lucky with the bunk counselors that I got each year, as well as my director Jacque for Les Miserables my first year and Tim for The Foreigner this year, and my time here wouldn't have been the same if it wasn't for them. This camp has so much to offer for kids interested in the arts as well as for physical activity. There is honestly something for everyone here and there should be no doubt in your mind if you get the amazing opportunity to come here. This isn't just a summer camp, it's a home away from home. Although I've only spent two years here, I'll remember all of the great times I've had here for the rest of my life.

This is my farewell to Long Lake Camp for the Arts. Where great creativity is inspired by the people around me. Where I'm not afraid to be myself. Where I've met great friends along the way. I will truly miss Long Lake. I wish my friends the best in life. God Bless and goodbye...

It's hard to say goodbye to a place where I've spent every August for the last seven years. I came to camp as a nervous and shy ten year-old who has never been in a musical. Thirteen musicals later, I have made friends here that will last a lifetime. Throughout the years, Long Lake has seen me grow up and go through all of my awkward stages. Every year, I look forward to coming to back to see my favorite people, to watch "The Princess Bride," to say the ridiculous shoutouts every morning, but next year I know I won't be back. I'll miss every single thing about this place and I am so grateful for everything it has given me. To my CITs, I hope our paths will cross in the future, and thank you for all of the memories that will be "my sunshine after the rain." I'll miss you Long Lake.

RENEE GELFAND

TROY KHASIEV

I will miss this place and all of the amazing friends I've made here. Though we may go our separate ways, we will never forget each other and this amazing place that seems to be too good to be true.

There is a reason I come back to this camp every year. Seven years ago I came to Long Lake and had no idea the impact this place would have on me. I have met the best people that I am lucky to call my best friends. I wouldn't want to watch "The Princess Bride" with anyone else. Thank you Long Lake Camp for the amazing memories. To the campers with a few more years at this amazing place, cherish the time you have here because before you know it, you'll be in my position wishing you could go back and start all over again. So make the most of it.

Love always,
Liv

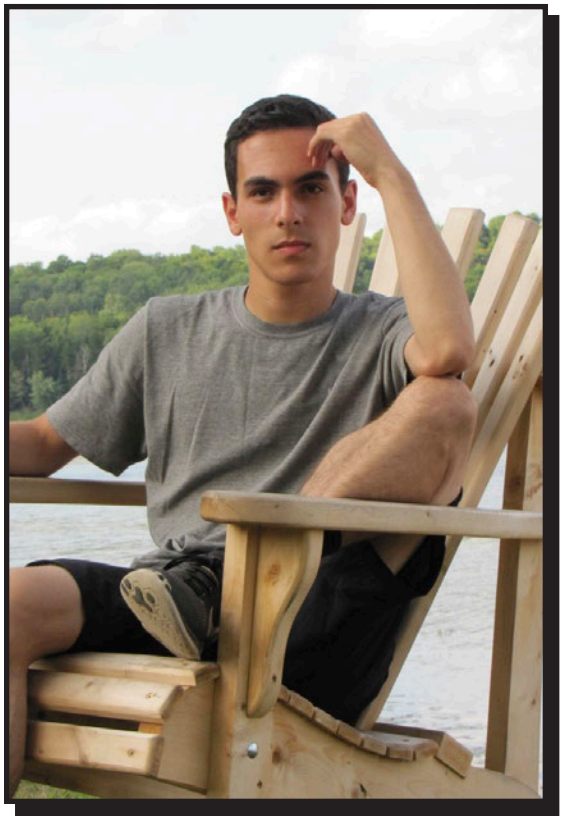
For the last seven summers, I have called Long Lake my home away from home. Here at Long Lake I have made so many friends that will last me a lifetime. My friends are the only reason why I still come here. Thank you, Long Lake Camp for the Arts, for all of the amazing memories!



For the last seven years, I've spent my summers at Long Lake. Thank you, Adventure Camp, for the best summers of my life.

When they asked me why I come back to camp, a million reasons flashed through my head. But I keep coming back because this is my escape. So thank you, Long Lake, for being my beautiful escape. Thank you for the 7th period soccer, for the water fights, thank you for the constant music in the Acropolis, and for the rest hour movies. Thank you for letting me introduce lacrosse and force people to play with me. Thank you for having some of the best people and counselors I have ever met. Thank you for having patience with me, even when I didn't have any. Thank you for Caleaf's dance classes. Thank you for the shows, and my 8 lines. Thank you for Herm Rock. Thank you Chantelle for letting me procrastinate my CIT photo. Thank you for trying to flip me on the tube. Thank you for the everlasting traditions, and for the screaming in the dining hall. Thank you for Rock Night and "The Princess Bride. Thank you for the nightly workouts on the balcony. Thank you for letting me experience this with my sister. Thank you for waking up at 3am to fulfill traditions. Thank you for shaping me into the person I am today. Thank you Main House and AC8 for making this summer unforgettable.

I always dreaded having to sit down and having to write my CIT Goodbye because that means having to accept the fact that I can't return to my beautiful escape. It means that my summers at Long Lake have come to an end. And each day is passing by without stopping. It means I'm no longer able to count down the days until camp. It means I have to say goodbye. Even though I will see you soon, I must say goodbye to all my memories, and goodbye means closing the cap on all of my memories here at Long Lake. So goodbye to my beautiful escape, and I know it will inspire others, just how it did for me.

Puck. Puck was the start of it all, one of my first leads I was ever cast as, and I was lucky enough to have it at Long Lake Camp. Being casted as a lead made me ecstatic and gave me a brand new level of confidence I didn't even know I had. I'd like to thank Long Lake Camp for providing us with a chance to escape the real world. I'd like to thank Main House for introducing me to new traditions. I'm sad to leave this camp because leaving means saying goodbye to the memories I've created, leaving the people I've grown to love behind. The friends I've made here will always hold a special place in my heart. I could never forget them even if I wanted to, I could never go a day without missing them. Meeting your friends outside of camp is always an option, but we will never be able to recreate the memories that this camp has made for us. These past three years have flown by in the blink of an eye. You may not see it now, but you will when you're a CIT and witness yourself how fast time flies, you too will realize how much every moment counts. The ones when you're bored and simply watching the water; those count. The ones when you get to sit out on your deck and watch the storms; those count. The ones when you're impatiently waiting for your bunk to get called so you can eat; those count. The smiles, laughs, tears and boredom. Those count. So just stop what you're doing for a moment and take a look around you. Stop and take a deep breath and appreciate the fact that you get to experience the serenity of Long Lake Camp. Use this camp to your advantage, use it to reach your dreams. Use it to get your very own Puck.

Long Lake, thank you for being the place that has harboured some of the best and strongest friendships I've ever had. When I look back on my time at camp, I may not remember all that I did, but I will remember all the people I did it with that made it worthwhile. We all may not share the same zip code, but we all share camp, and all the wonderful time spent here, which will always bring us back together in the end. Goodbye Long Lake, see you later friends, do beautiful things and live beautiful lives.

Walking onto the teardrop, a shy and scared eleven year-old knowing absolutely no one, I was honestly terrified. Seeing how close and friendly everyone was with each other, I knew I would fall in love with this magical place. After being here for five years, I can't believe it is almost over. Long Lake is the only place where I have truly felt accepted and loved. You have the opportunity to make friends for life in the short amount of time all of us have at camp. Long Lake has had such a huge impact on my life, including a new love of jazz music, more confidence performing on stage for dance and theater, and most importantly, the ability to talk to complete strangers and make new friends. Thank you to all the friends I've made here and everyone who has helped to make that happen. Never take the magic of Long Lake for granted, it is truly the best place on earth with the best people in the world. I love you Long Lake and goodbye.

It has been an amazing two years here at Long Lake. I will miss it so much. I've made so many new, amazing friends here. It'll be hard to say goodbye. This whole experience at Long Lake has changed my life forever. Lavelle Circus will always be the Long Lake Queen, and I'll miss her and all of the other wonderful counselors.

To all you younger campers, you won't understand how hard it is to write your CIT goodbye until the time comes. Make it easy on yourself, make as many memories as you can. No year is the same as the next. There are endless activities and opportunities at this camp. No matter where you come from you will find people you can relate to, you will make friends that literally last forever. It's incredible how in just three weeks the things that can happen. Every year is different too. As soon as you think you've met everyone at camp, you make more. It's doesn't end. I'm speaking to you from experience, it's my CIT year and I'm still meeting people I had never spoken to before. People here are amazing, not just the campers but each and every counselor too, working so hard to make sure we have the best time of our lives at this camp. For me, this place is my escape from reality, as if coming here is just this beautiful utopia where everyone has a place, and everyone fits. I really wish I could just stay here forever with all the friends I've made. I'll never forget any of the friends I've made, the fun times I've had, the shows I've been in, or the line, "My name is Inigo Montoya, you killed my father, prepare to die." It sucks to have to say goodbye to this place, but it's just something we all have to do at some point. Try not to think about it too much, enjoy every single second you're here. Make the most of it. I will always love you Long Lake.

In the two summers I have spent at Long Lake, I have had some of the best experiences of my life. I am so grateful to have made such wonderful friends (especially Cariss!) that I will keep forever, been a part of The Addams Family and Little Shop of Horrors, and gained so much confidence in myself and my skills. Coming to Long Lake not only means you get to explore new activities and break out of your comfort zone, but it also means coming to a place that encourages you to be your best self and wholly accepts you. I am proud to say I have done both. Though I will miss coming to camp, I'm so thankful to carry with me all the memories. Thank you to everyone who made my time here so special! Long live Molly and the Gals!

Long Lake is a place of immense beauty and possibility, where you are free to do everything and anything your heart desires. It is also the only place I have ever been to where you can arrive with a certain set of skills, and leave after just three weeks with a completely new set of skills. You can perform in a musical in the morning, take bass lessons in the afternoon, hang out at the beach with friends, and then workout in the gym, all in one day. Being a returning camper from four years ago, I can definitely give one piece of advice: don't waste a single moment. Because that moment you miss might end up being "that one time when you learned how to juggle," or, "that one time when you learned to do a cartwheel." Being able to play Rocky in The Rocky Horror Show and being the AD for Harvey has been a dream, and I will miss working on these shows the second I leave. Thank you for all the memories Long Lake. It's been litty, peace out.

None of these words feel right and they never will. I cannot sum up three years of summer experiences in half of a page, nor will I attempt to. However, I will attempt to share a small portion of what this camp means to me.

It is hard to write a goodbye when I do not feel like I am leaving. The thought that I had my last "off the bus maul," my last "first day ice cream sundae," my last march to canteen to check casting calls etc. is surreal to me. I am trying to not be sad. I am trying to focus on all the good here. Long Lake has given me three unforgettable summers. My spirit will always run back to these grounds. This is my inner artist's home. This is where she sleeps, where she eats, where she grows. This is where she creates, sings, plays, acts, laughs, cries, and thrives. How can I take that away from her?

While I am sad that I cannot have another year, I am glad that in my stead there will be a new group of kids in my shoes who get to experience the brilliance that is Long Lake. I am comforted that there will be a little Sammie who walks onto these grounds a little confused, a little intimidated, and with a big dream. She may be unconfident in her artistic capabilities and ability to make friends, but Long Lake will show her that it is okay to not be able to hit the right note on the first try, or fall out of your pirouettes as long as you get back up and try again

Long Lake has given me the strength to get back up. Long Lake has given me the strength to be an unapologetic artist. I found my voice here. The friends I have made here will forever be in my heart. I can only thank Long Lake for nurturing me and giving me the tools to become the artist I am today. From knife throwing to Rock Nights performing solo for the first time, Long Lake has given me it all.

I inherently found myself here, and I will forever be thankful to everyone here for allowing me to do so.

Forever Yours,
Sammie Paul

All I can really think of to say is thank you and I'll miss you Long Lake. I know that isn't the most original goodbye on planet Earth, but that's all I can really think of to say right now. Maybe it's because of the stress of knowing CIT goodbyes are due tomorrow. Maybe it's because I have a drum lesson in less than five minutes (and I missed the last one so Tom Drums will probably kill me if I miss this one too.) But maybe it's just because I just don't want to say goodbye. Anyway, thank you Long Lake for the memories, the opportunities, and the friendships I know will last a lifetime. I'll miss ya, LLC. Goodbye. I'll never forget you (unless I get dementia when I'm super old, but hopefully not even then.)

ELIZABETH POOL

ELIAS RAHMOUNI

I've gone to LLC for three years, and each year I meet wonderful people; Pete, Will, Gabe, Tannick, Leo, Morgan, Dee, Lewys, Kelly, Javier, Anthony...and I will miss all of them.

Thank you, Long Lake Camp, and goodbye.

AC1D - sexy boys - le garçon de Frommage - McLoven

All I can truly say is thank you. I was very fortunate to spend the time I did here at Long Lake and couldn't forget it if I tried. To be completely honest, the one person who influenced and inspired me the most here was Tammy. She was an amazing director and had a work ethic like no one else, as well as a heart bigger than the moon. She showed me love and compassion like no other director has before. I was deeply saddened when she passed away, just as so many others were. I am so lucky to say that I got to work with such an amazing woman. Long Lake not only gave me the opportunity to work with amazing people, but allowed me to meet new friends and try all kinds of new things. I wouldn't trade the times I had here for the world. This is a home to me as it is for so many. Much love to everyone and best of luck on your journeys ahead.

Xoxo Sydney.

I truly never imagined that it was possible to create a family in three to six short weeks. Still, after only two years, I feel as if I am being forced to say goodbye to some of the people who I care for the most in the entire world. I have never been in a more loving, supportive, and unconditionally kind environment than the one I found at Long Lake. Whether it was playing ERS in Rays, or harmonizing to random songs in the bunk, I always felt a level of comfort and safety that most would say is unachievable. When I am going through something at home or in school, I just think of how everything will be okay when I get back to camp and see my friends. There is no good way to say goodbye to a place that you love this much, but I can confidently say that I will never forget my time here. I love this place so much.

KARLEE ROCKSTROH

I don't usually say goodbye because goodbye is forever. Long Lake Camp is a home away from home where you meet the best people you will ever know. It's amazing to think about how one place can bring so many people from all over the world together. These years have flown by. I remember my first year here and seeing all the CITs and saying, "Wow I can't wait to be like them." Now that I am one, I just want to be back in Upper Stone House and have five more years of this great place. The moment I came here I knew I would instantly fall in love with everything because of the wonderful people and welcoming atmosphere. I am going to miss being able to be who I really am. Place and people are two very special words. Now I'm realizing that there will be no more getting dressed up for Rock Nights with my favorite people at my favorite place, no more watching "The Princess Bride" and sitting on the ground with your back aching, and I will take my final walk down to the lake on Hell night for our last night together. It will be hard to grasp on to the fact that it's okay if I don't see my friends this year because I will just see them at camp, but unfortunately camp isn't forever.

Thank you Long Lake for the friendships that will last a lifetime.

Now on to my next chapter in life. I will never forget you Long Lake Camp.
Forever and always Long Lake Camp,
Karlee Rockstroh

REBECCA ROTH

Throughout my four years at Long Lake, I have realized that you should never take for granted this wonderful place. Also you should always take risks and go out of your comfort zone. You won't regret it. I have taken many risks that I don't regret. Chris Brass forced me into Brass Ensemble here. I had so much fun doing it my first time and every time after that. This camp has helped me with my skills as an artist and I am grateful for that. I have learned to sight read so much better since I have been here which has really helped me to this point and will continue to help me throughout my career as a trombone player (which won't be very long, ew trombone.) I tried magic my third year here and was tentative about doing it. However, the first time I did it I was hooked, and have kept doing it and will probably continue with magic well after camp (even though that sounds lame.) Overall camp has been a great four years and I would always want to come back to this beautiful place.

Also I love you Indie Beare <3 XoXo

I beat Josh Magic at Egyptian Rat Screw here at least once. Life goals accomplished.

Dear campers,

Every year I wait for another fun-filled three weeks. Long Lake Camp is something that one will not forget. The memories I have made at Long Lake I will hold in my heart forever. Some of my best friends I made here not only changed me as a person, but changed my outlook on life. Camp helped me recognize who I really am and helped me find my true passion. It improved me as photographer and expanded my creativity. Three years is a long time, but here I am today, writing my CIT goodbye, remembering my first year like it was yesterday. To the future CITs, remember to spend your days at Long Lake wisely and have as much fun as you can while you're here. Thank you to everyone who made these three years truly amazing. Love you all.

love Jonah :)

Fooooooooor I am a Pirate King and it is it is a glorious thing to be a Pirate King; when I think of home I think of a place where there's love overflowing; one more dawn, one more day; it's the circle of life!!!!!!

Four amazing years, four amazing shows, all in the one place that I have to say goodbye to. Long Lake, thank you for the irreplaceable gifts you've given me, my confidence, my friends and the countless memories I will cherish forever. The lessons you've taught me in being a performer and in just being a person are ones that I will treasure. Most of all, thank you for the magic that is this wonderful place. Everyone at Long Lake in a way has affected me, whether it was a director, counselor, or fellow camper, and they are the reasons saying goodbye is so hard. But I know I have to leave in order to make room for the bunch of campers who will hopefully treasure this place like I did.

So thank you Long Lake, for everything.

Love - Edith, Auntie Em, Grantaire, Mufasa and Jackie.

The bittersweet counting down of the days shared with my friends in the months leading to camp made me realize that just because I'm leaving doesn't mean I need to say goodbye. It also made me realize that the memories I have made here are memories that I will hold close to me forever, and the incredible friends I shared the memories with are friends that I will have for the rest of my life. The past four summers I have spent here were truly life-changing. From the very first moment I stepped on the teardrop, I knew this place was magical, and I have never been more right about anything ever. Long Lake has made me who I am today, and I would just like to sincerely thank everyone who made that possible. I love you forever Long Lake.

LIZA TENANBAUM

The jittery feeling you get as you enter the driveway of Long Lake never fades. I've been here for six years, and still I get that mix of excitement and fear. Adrenaline. I never want that feeling to tire. I want to live every moment of my life the way I live it here. Free, excited, nervous -mostly because of Geoff because, if we're being honest, he is a little intimidating - but most of all I want to be happy. You can finally be yourself here; Long Lake is so accepting, and that's just one of the wonders of this place. This is the part where I tell you how sad I am to be leaving camp, but can I be honest with you? I'm not sad- not at all, I feel... joyous in a way? I look at everyone here and I think about the journey you all will take. I can't wait for you to paint and write and sing and do all these amazing things that I got to do, and I'm proud. Proud that I got to call this place home for so long, and proud that I got to connect to people like me. Most of all, I am proud of the people that will come here after me for being so different in the most amazing ways. I love each and every one of you. Stay young. Stay hungry.

Forever,
Liza

I don't want this to be the cheesy cliché CIT goodbye that I have seen for four years, so I will be honest. I love this place and never want to leave, but that is inevitable. That is the part that is so difficult for me to come to terms with. Once I step past that, I'll realize why I was supposed to come here. It was for what I got out of it, and the affect this camp has on me. I could never put this feeling into words, so I'm not going to. I just wanted to thank the people that have come to mean so much to me through the years. You all know who you are.

Au revoir

I've been staring at a blank paper for thirty minutes, trying to find the right words to say and the truth is, I could take up every page in this book and it still wouldn't accurately sum up my time here at Long Lake. Long Lake is my "happy place." I'm my best self when I'm here. I've finally found a place where I'm wanted, and that's everything I could ask for and more, which is why it's so much harder to say goodbye. I've made friends here that I'll have for my entire life. Long Lake has given me the ability to grow as a performer, as an artist, and as an individual. The best thing for me to do at this point is to try and realize all it has given me and all it has made me become and take that into the next chapter of my life. I'm not leaving all of my memories here, but rather carrying them forward with me forever. If there's any advice I can give, it's take time and appreciate the little things Long Lake has to offer. Sit on an Adirondack chair and enjoy the view. Read every signature on the Rylee walls and appreciate what everyone had to say. Breathe in the fresh air and remember how lucky you are to be there in that moment. Thank you Long Lake for four amazing years. Stay humble, stay kind, stay magical and always remember you have nothing to prove only something to share.
